July 2024. Thailand's luxurious boutique residence The Sarojin has launched its brand-new 'Yoga for the Community' initiative, welcoming guests to take part in regular enriching and invigorating yoga classes that give back to the local community.

Led by The Sarojin's expert yoga teacher every Tuesday and Friday morning from 8-9 am, Yoga for the Community sessions guide guests through a restorative hour of stretching and toning designed to help calm the body and mind. Taking place within the resort's grounds upon a shaded pavilion within its lush gardens, the intimate sessions are available for up to four guests at a time. Costing 400 THB (approx. 8.60 GBP) per person, all profits from the classes are donated to The Sarojin Community Care Fund.

Established in 2004, the fund was initially set up to help rebuild the communities surrounding the resort in the wake of the devastating Boxing Day tsunami. Today it continues to contribute to several worthy local causes, from providing medical provisions and restoring local infrastructure to supporting local orphanages, schools and wildlife projects. Guests are encouraged to donate to the fund with 100% of the money raised distributed locally and can join The Sarojin team on regular volunteer days, combining their luxurious getaway with a sense of giving back.

Those staying at The Sarojin this summer will be amongst the first to try out the new Yoga for the Community sessions, which officially launched this month. Late availability with The Sarojin's special summer rate is still available for those seeking a last-minute luxury escape for less, with rooms from as little as £140 per night until the end of September. Private yoga classes at the resort are also available upon request.
