

EVA AIR EXPANDS ITS JAPAN SERVICES WITH NEW ROUTES TO NAGOYA, AOMORI AND MATSUYAMA

TAIPEI, TAIWAN (November 27, 2018) – EVA Air, Taiwan’s leading independent airline, has announced it will be expanding its Japan services in 2019, with the addition of three new destinations. Complementing the eight gateways the airline currently serves, EVA Air will initiate flights from Taipei’s Taoyuan International Airport to Japan’s airports in Nagoya, Aomori and Matsuyama. Subject to government approvals, the initiation of these services will begin in Q2 2019 and continue into Q3 2019.

EVA Air plans to begin daily flights between Taipei and Nagoya on 6th June 2019, using a Boeing 787-9 Dreamliner configured for 304 passengers, with 26 in Royal Laurel (Business) Class and 278 in Economy Class. Early morning departures and mid-afternoon returns from/to Taoyuan International Airport will make onward connections easy and convenient for passengers arriving on early morning flights from North America and Europe.

EVA Air’s new Nagoya flights will operate as follows:

Route	Flight No.	Frequency	Departure	Arrival
Taipei–Nagoya	BR128	Daily	07:55	11:45
Nagoya–Taipei	BR127	Daily	12:55	15:10

During the third quarter of 2019, EVA Air will introduce services from Taipei to Aomori and Matsuyama. At the same time, the airline will increase its capacity to Tokyo Narita, Osaka, Okinawa and Sendai by adding further flights on existing routes and deploying larger aircraft. By 2022, once all 24 of its brand-new Dreamliners have been delivered, EVA Air expects to have boosted its combined flight capacity by more than 10% on its Japan routes.

EVA Air President Clay Sun said, “With more Boeing 787 Dreamliners being added to EVA Air’s fleet, we plan to reshape the Japan market and enhance our global network strategy. In 2019, we will enhance our connections in Japan with the addition of gateways in Nagoya, Aomori and Matsuyama. We will operate this increased level of service by using Boeing 787 Dreamliners and Airbus 330-300s on flights to Tokyo Narita and Osaka. 2019 will also see us increase our flight frequency to Sendai and Okinawa.”
