As Palm Springs continues to be increasingly popular with travellers looking to soak up its retro cool vibes and 360 days of annual sunshine, the desert oasis continues to welcome a host of new vibrant hotels. From renowned hotel brands such as Andaz and Dream to smaller boutique hotels, there's a new hotel coming to the city for everyone.

Infusion Beach Club

Having celebrated in soft opening this month and the full grand opening expected in September, Infusion Beach Club is perfect for those looking for intimate boutique hotel in Palm Springs. Previously the Monroe Hotel, the property has undergone an extensive two-year renovation and redesign to bring a whole new guest experience to the 62-room hotel. Featuring stylishly decorated rooms with warm wood accents and posh club furnishings and a 5,500 square-foot pool area, boasting spectacular mountain views, a pebble beer garden, turf daybeds and electronic cabanas with louvered roofs, the hotel is perfect for relaxing after a day exploring the city's nearby attractions and new downtown.

About Palm Springs

One hundred miles east of Los Angeles, Palm Springs is a desert playground with year-round sunshine, blue skies and stunning natural beauty. Nestled beneath California's San Jacinto Mountains, the city is famed for its Hollywood legacy, Native American heritage and huge collection of mid-century modern architecture. The desert oasis boasts a wealth of adventurous hiking trails and historical canyon tours, as well as chic boutiques, world-renowned golf courses and unique experiences, including the chance to stay in the former homes of Marilyn Monroe and Elvis Presley.
