

Palm Springs to Welcome New Boutique Resort, Dive Palm Springs, This November

The Californian desert oasis of Palm Springs is set to welcome a new boutique resort this autumn, with the official opening of Dive Palm Springs in November. Inspired by the French Riviera of the 1960's, the resort is set to bring the era's timeless style and grace to the heart of Palm Springs.

Boasting elegant design throughout, lush grounds, an intimate Lounge and Power Room - perfect for an evening night-cap - and a restored original Maurice Libott designed pool, the adults only hotel will have 11 chic rooms and suites each with their own individual design. Unique features include a Christian Lacroix ceiling mural, a vintage belle époque Parisian elevator transformed into a queen-sized bed and a private three hole putting green.

Guests who venture outside their rooms will be able to sip a cocktail in the boutique resort's central garden, complete with cosy seating nestled under towering palm trees or recline on a day bed by its super-zen Koi Pond. For a little more seclusion in the sun, guests will also be able to hang out in a two-person swing chair within the resort's private orchard, complete with aromatic citrus trees.

Rooms start from $300 per night and the property will be available to hire for events, weddings, photoshoots and private buyouts with facilities to host up to 150 daytime guests and 28 overnight guests.

About Palm Springs

One hundred miles east of Los Angeles, Palm Springs is a desert playground with year-round sunshine, blue skies and stunning natural beauty. Nestled beneath California's San Jacinto Mountains, the city is famed for its Hollywood legacy, Native American heritage and huge collection of mid-century modern architecture. The desert oasis boasts a wealth of adventurous hiking trails and historical canyon tours, as well as chic boutiques, world-renowned golf courses and unique experiences, including the chance to stay in the former homes of Marilyn Monroe and Elvis Presley.
